

- WHITE HOUSE AND PRESIDENT CLINTON RECEIVES COOLIDGE ROCKER.

John Coolidge, son of the late President relaxes in the Coolidge Rocker with his daughter Lydia Coolidge Sales in the living room of the family homestead at Plymouth Notch. September 1999.

LUDLOW, VERMONT- At 2:47a.m. on August 3, 1923, Calvin Coolidge took the oath of office at his home in Plymouth, Vermont, to become the 30th President of the United States. In spite of his position as leader of the nation, Coolidge could still be seen sitting in his rocking chair on the front porch of his family's homestead. From this perch, he welcomed passersby and chatted amiably about the topics of the day. Seventy-five years later, there are still three rocking chairs on the porch of the Coolidge homestead, one of which is believed to be crafted by the President himself. In honor of the 75th anniversary of the Homestead Inaugural, ClearLake Furniture created the Coolidge Rocker. To honor our "sitting" President, ClearLake Furniture has crafted one for President Clinton as well. The White House, and President Clinton have gratefully accepted a Coolidge Rocker in commemoration of Vermont's legendary native son. "The Coolidge Rocker has become our most popular rocking chair. The back lumbar support is unrivaled," explains Frank Procopio, Clear Lake Furniture's designer and co-owner. "It's more than just a piece of furniture. It's a thinking place, a restful spot for conversation.

ClearLake Furniture headquarters is a restored 1850 barn in Vermont's southern mountains north of Ludlow on scenic Route 100 North.
